

The storm is coming! Be prepared

Call for Speakers

We are happy to announce that the key message for the Baltic "PM Days 2017" conference will be "The storm is coming. *Be prepared".

"PM Days" conference, the biggest project management event in the Baltic countries, will be held in Vilnius, Lithuania in November, 2-3, 2017.

Conference is organized by Lithuanian project management association in cooperation with Latvian and Estonian associations (members of IPMA)

Conference Program Committee announces call for Speakers on the topics of project, program, and portfolio management and competences, that are necessary in this highly turbulent area. The main goal of the conference is to offer the latest perspectives on business transformations and their impact on people working with projects not only by theoretical view, but also through experiences gained in practical cases.

Target group:

- ~200 participants mainly from Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia
- Industries: IT & Telecommunication, Banking, Infrastructure, Public sector (Government, Municipality), Shared service centers, Consulting and Academia.
- Professionals with following positions: Project, Program, Portfolio Managers, Project management department managers, Middle level managers, Change managers, Consultants, Researchers in the field of PM.

Dear speakers if you would like to get more information or propose your presentation – please contact Ieva (PM of Baltic PM days 2017, ieva.jakubaitiene@lpva.lt).
